*Gabriel (Gabe) Graumann
Creator & Author of MoneyTalkWithGabe
President, Connwill Management, L.L.C.*

Introduction

Gabe Graumann is the author and creator of MoneyTalkWithGabe, a personal finance blog that helps individuals become successful money managers at home and in the workplace. Gabe started MoneyTalkWithGabe in 2006 as a way to reach individuals on a broader basis. Using topical posts, Q&A sessions, video and other media, MoneyTalkWithGabe educates the public in personal finance issues, giving people practical methods for reaching financial success. Gabe was recently featured as a contributor for Inc. magazine story, "Preparing your kids for a recession."

Experience

In addition to contributing to MoneyTalkWithGabe, Gabe facilitates a 13-week personal finance class twice a year during the fall and spring in his local community in Western Washington. Open to residents wanting to make positive, long-lasting changes in their money management behaviors and practices, these courses explore all areas of personal finance including how to balance and reconcile a checkbook and to how to communicate with a spouse about money issues to topics on mortgages, insurance, auto-loans, retirement planning, and preparing for taxes.

Outside providing personal financial counseling, Gabe is the president of Connwill Management, L.L.C., a commercial property development and consulting firm that specializes in retail and mixed-use commercial projects and land acquisition.

Education

Gabe received his associate's degree from Cascadia Community College and completed bachelor's degree work in Business Administration from Liberty University.
